

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Kim Culbertson has taught high school English, Creative Writing and drama for over ten years in both public and private schools. Currently, she works at Forest Charter School, a progressive personalized learning program. Throughout her teaching, she has also worked privately as a college advisor, workshop teacher, and educational consultant. Kim Culbertson has written short fiction for Cicada and her first novel, Songs for a Teenage Nomad. Kim sees her writing as an extension of her teaching. She is a member of the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators (SCBWI) along with participating in her local writing community organizations. Kim lives in the Northern California foothills with her husband and daughter.
